

List of central banks that receive settlement finality protection for securities held as collateral security under the Financial Markets and Insolvency (Settlement Finality) Regulations 1999 (as amended) (“SFRs”)

SFRs provide that the Bank of England (the Bank) may notify HM Treasury of those non-UK central banks that shall receive protection against UK insolvency law challenges when taking collateral security in relation to their central bank functions.

The Bank has accordingly notified HM Treasury of the central banks whose names are set out below and this protection has now taken effect.

This list may be updated from time to time.
